Mill St. developer asks for $564K

By Michael Ballway
mballway@turley.com

The developers of 586 Mill St. will get more than half a million dollars of taxpayer funds if the City Council ratifies a town committee vote held last week.

The Community Preservation Committee on Jan. 22 voted to recommend $564,000 to support the 63-unit apartment complex. The money would come from the town's Community Preservation Act accounts, which are funded by a 1 percent surcharge on local property tax bills, as well as matching grants from the state.

"I think that's the least the town could do to show support for this valuable project," said committee member Richard Maggi.

Town questions pipeline but is not able to stop it

By Michael Ballway
mballway@turley.com

Regardless of how they feel about natural gas pipeline work in Agawam, there's nothing Agawam city councilors can do to stop the project.

That was the consensus of pipeline officials, the town solicitor and councilors themselves at a workshop session of the City Council held Tuesday, Jan. 28. Councilors had asked representatives from Tennessee Gas Pipeline LLC to attend and answer their questions about the environmental impact of plans to install a 2.1-mile "loop" pipeline along Suffield Street, and to upgrade equipment at the pipeline compressor station on Suffield Street near the Connecticut state line.

"In reality, this is a federally regulated pipeline," said Town Solicitor Stephen Buoniconti. "The town doesn't have much oversight. It's all at the federal level."

He said Tennessee Gas had already been through a two-year permitting process with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission.

Barring unforeseen delays, construction is slated to begin this summer and last three months, said Jim Hartman, a right-of-way agent for Tennessee Gas, based in Enfield, Conn.

As a federal pipeline, Tennessee Gas is subject to more stringent regulations than the low-pressure systems operated by utility companies, Hartman said. The pipes are welded and tested with water for leaks before being placed into service, then electrically charged to repel corrosion and detect imperfections immediately, and inspected from the inside with a "pig" – an inspection rig that travels through the pipe – on a regular basis. The active lines in the ground today are original pipes from the 1960s and indistinguishable from brand-new pipes.

RESOURCE OFFICERS

Called back to the halls of justice

By Mike Lydick
aan@turley.com

When Agawam police officers Taylor Hartmann and Jeff Hichborn were both in high school, they decided their "calling" was in law enforcement.

Now they're back in school as Agawam's two newest school resource officers – mixing with students, enforcing laws, and helping keep students and staff safe.

They began working the school "beat" in September. Hartmann succeeded Officer Robert Burke, the SRO at the high school for nearly a decade before he was promoted to sergeant in the spring. Hichborn took over at AJHS from Officer Mark Poggi, who retired.

Hichborn, a native of Southwick, got a preview of his new assignment last spring when he was temporarily assigned to AJHS to fill in when Poggi retired. It was an opportunity for him to learn firsthand about the position while getting to know the staff and some of the students.

"I quickly found myself becoming a mentor to a few students. I enjoyed my short time in the school and decided I'd like to take on the position full-time," he said.

Hartmann, who grew up in Agawam and is a 2009 AHS graduate, also coaches girls varsity basketball and soccer at the school.

"I thought I'd be a good fit for the position. Hopefully, students will see me as a good role model," said Hartmann. Inducted last year into the AHS Athletic Hall of Fame, she played varsity soccer, basketball, and softball for four years as a student.

Hartmann and Hichborn were selected as SROs after they and several other officers were interviewed for the positions.

"Officer[s] Hartmann and Hichborn gave strong interviews. Both had certain individual skill sets that made them strong can-

Q &amp; AGAWAM

Marshal is honored to lead St. Patrick's parade

By Shelby Macri
smaci@turley.com

It's nearly Irish Season in Agawam, and Laurie O'Connell is leading the way as this year's parade marshal. O'Connell, a volunteer with the Agawam St. Patrick's Committee since 2013, was chosen this year to march at the head of the Agawam division in the nationally famous Holyoke St. Patrick's Day Parade, which will take place Sunday, March 22.

Q: What does the parade marshal do?

A: The parade marshal leads the Agawam group in the Holyoke St. Patrick's Day parade. They are the first in the contingent and they lead the group throughout the parade route. They are front and center before the parade walkers and the Agawam float. It's a very exciting job. Though I've been a parade walker before, this will be my first time being a parade marshal and being able to lead the entire group. This is really an honor and that's one of the most exciting things about this, is being able to lead the contingent.

Q: How did you become the parade marshal?

A: Well, it's pretty simple, I'm a member of the St.

Laurie O'Connell

Why you should know her: She'll be the parade marshal of the Agawam division in the Holyoke St. Patrick's Day Parade this year, and has worked on the St. Patrick's Committee since 2013. She's lived in Feeding Hills since age 5, in 1970.

Favorite thing about Feeding Hills: That I went to school here and my kids went to the same schools, and that it's just a great community.

Patrick's Committee and I was voted to be the parade marshal by the board. It's an annual award that usually only goes to someone that's a part of the committee. It's one of three awards. There's also the Citizenship award and the Anne Sullivan award, those also go to committee members. I've also been awarded the Anne Sullivan award in past years. The board usually awards it to someone who exemplifies being Irish in the community.

Q: What are you most excited about?

A: I've been in the parade and I've been to it as an observer, so just being there and celebrating is exciting to me. Besides that, I'd have to say I'm excited to see our float finished and have the opportunity to see the other wonderful floats.

The float for Agawam is actually being built as we speak; there's a separate committee for the float. The topic is a secret, and only the float committee knows what it will be. I do know what the float will be, but I've been sworn to secrecy. People will have to come out to celebrate and see what we've come up with.

Q: Where do you work?

A: While I enjoy my time at the committee, I do have a day job; I'm a paralegal for the [state] Department of Children and Families. I really enjoy my job, and it takes up a good amount of time, though I also work part-time. I work at the Hardwick Winery, it's in Hardwick, Mass., and it's beautiful there. They have a lot of great wines and they're very popular, plus they have amazing views, it's a really great place. It's a really fun place to go. I recommend it to anyone.

Q: What are some of your hobbies?

A: I like to cook and try new recipes. I really love cooking. It's what I'm always doing in my free time. I also enjoy going on Sunday drives and finding new places to go and explore. Though it's not a hobby, I really enjoy spending time with my grandchildren. I love to hang out with them. I'm pretty simple. Cooking is my biggest non-work passion. I'm cooking all the time.

Q: What's it like being Irish in Agawam and Feeding Hills?

A: Well, living in Agawam is great — it's an amazing place to live. Though it was mostly populated with Italian communities in the early years, later on there were exploding Irish communities being drawn to the area. Now there are so many different types of cultures and heritages that live in Agawam and Feeding Hills, we try to make it a fun season for everyone. It's fun being able to celebrate altogether and try to get the whole community involved.

Q: What's something surprising that happens behind ## the scenes at the parade?

A: One of the most surprising things that happens behind the scenes for the parade, is the fact that they hold the judging of the floats early in the morning. The judges go around in the morning and review the floats, they then pick the winner after seeing them all. As the floats appear along the float route, they announce who the winner is and what place the floats received. It's always fun to hear them announce the float places and already knowing ahead of time.

Q: How did you join the St. Patrick's Committee?

A: I've been on the committee since 2013, and it's funny because I had only heard about the committee through my granddaughter. She was on the Colleen Court in 2013 and that introduced me to the committee. After I knew about it, I wanted to join. I'm very proud of my Irish heritage and that's just what they're looking for. I'm glad I was introduced to it, 'cause I enjoy being on the committee.

Calabrese to lead state municipal officials' group for 2020

By Michael Ballway
mballway@turley.com

The other 10 Agawam city councilors know Cecilia Calabrese as their vice president, but for hundreds of councilors, selectmen, mayors and town managers across Massachusetts, she's now their president.

Calabrese took office last week as the first-ever Agawam resident to lead the Massachusetts Municipal Association, a professional group and advocacy organization for local government administrators and elected officials throughout the state. She had served as MMA vice president in 2019.

Although she takes seriously her duty to represent the MMA members from all of Massachusetts' 351 cities and towns, Calabrese said this week that she looks forward to using the "bully pulpit" to advocate for solutions to some of the problems affecting mid-sized towns like Agawam — special education funding, reimbursement for charter school tuition, Chapter 90 state funding for streets.

Leading the MMA "means I get to meet with the lieutenant governor on a monthly basis, and have some input on financial and legislative priorities," Calabrese said.

She said she'll try to use her influence on Beacon Hill to push for help with two of Agawam's biggest infrastructure needs — federally mandated upgrades and repairs to the stormwater drain system, and the expansion of the sewer system through western Feeding Hills.

In an interview with the MMA website, Calabrese said her 2020 priorities include solutions to problems with solid waste disposal and recycling, sustainable infrastructure, and municipal pension liabilities, and promoting community composting, the protection of public waterways and groundwater, and innovation in education.

She said she appreciates the challenges of her role, after having observed 2019 MMA President Ellen Allen and other past presidents.

"I have learned that being on the leadership team of an organization such as the MMA, because of its very nature, brings with it an awesome responsibility to remember that I do not merely represent myself as an individual, or my community," Calabrese said. "Rather, I represent 351 cities and towns of Massachusetts, and the diverse opinions and sensitivities thereof."

Calabrese has a law degree from the Quinnipiac University School of Law, and has worked as a bankruptcy attorney and served as an assistant attorney general and on the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination's advisory board to fight housing discrimination. She ran her law firm for more than a decade, and now works as a dental hygienist and a residential and commercial property manager. She previously had served on the Conservation Commission in Brookfield, Conn.

Calabrese has served as a city councilor in Agawam since 2004, with a two-year gap in 2010-11 after an unsuccessful bid for mayor. She was the council's vice president during the 2008-09 term, and returned to that post alongside Council President Christopher Johnson in 2018. She joined the MMA Board of Directors in 2017.

Agawam City Council President Christopher Johnson congratulated Calabrese on her new statewide role during the Jan. 21 council meeting.

"It's a high honor," Johnson said. "I know she'll do an outstanding job."

Taking Calabrese's place as vice president of the MMA will be Adam Chapdelaine, town manager of Arlington since 2012. MMA Executive Director Geoff Beckwith expressed appreciation for the energy, thoughtfulness and experience that Calabrese and Chapdelaine bring.

"The MMA depends on strong leaders who can unite and mobilize our members in common cause to benefit every community across the state, and we are deeply grateful that Cece and Adam have stepped forward to provide that leadership," Beckwith told the MMA website. "With them at the helm, we know 2020 will be a great year for our cities and towns."

The MMA includes members of the Massachusetts Mayors' Association, Massachusetts Municipal Councillors' Association, Massachusetts Municipal Management Association, Massachusetts Select Board Association and Association of Town Finance Committees.

didates for the positions," said Agawam Police Sgt. Steve Grasso, their supervisor. "They're valuable assets to the schools and to the Police Department."

He added that the department received "excellent feedback" from the AJHS administration about Hichborn's performance.

"The interaction between Officer Hichborn and students was extremely positive and was a contributing factor in his selection," Grasso said.

One reason Hartmann was chosen as a resource officer was her seven years of "positive relationships" with many high school-aged students as assistant girls' varsity soccer coach.

"The officer-student interaction is paramount at the high school level — and we received positive feedback from high school administrators about Officer Hartmann. She has a calm demeanor which makes her very approachable," said Grasso.

Resource officers serve as mentors to students and also assist schools with issues that go beyond the scope of the School Department.

"They're encouraged to construct innovative ways for positive interactions between the officer and students. We want SROs to be accessible so students will use them as a resource," Grasso added.

According to Grasso, resource officers have been at Agawam High School for nearly 20 years, but it's only been the past several years that an officer was assigned at AJHS. He said officers have been in the school since the late 1980s, but primarily as Drug Abuse Resistance Education officers. Hichborn will handle both duties at AJHS.

Grasso said although resource officers work in the schools, they're still Police Department employees.

"SROs essentially act as a resource to the School Department. Basically, the school becomes the SRO's district (patrol area) and they patrol it like any other patrol officer," he explained.

Throughout the school year, Hartmann and Hichborn will work as school resource officers. During the summer break, they will return to patrol duty. Both said it hasn't been difficult to transition to a school-based policing program.

"My main role is to bridge the gap between the Police Department and the school," said Hichborn, who joined the Agawam Police four years ago after serving in the Navy. "It's different since I'm only dealing with juveniles all day, instead of all ages when I'm out on patrol," added Hartmann.

"I'm here to foster unique relationships that students can have with a law enforcement officer that may not be available to them in any other capacity," said Hichborn.

"Kids I've interacted with seemed to accept me fairly quickly."

Many seventh graders quickly interacted with him this fall because of their experience with Officer John Field, the middle school's resource officer and DARE officer. Hichborn said his main challenge is trying to get students to see past the uniform and the position of authority.

"I want them to realize that I'm here for them and that they're always welcome to interact with me in any way that makes them feel more comfortable," he added.

Hartmann joined the Agawam Police five years ago after working for the Hampden County Sheriff's Department as a correctional officer. She wants students to trust her so they can talk with her and come to her for help.

"I like to interact and talk to students during passing time between periods or if I stop in a classroom," she said. "I think it's easier for me to relate with students, since I'm only 10 years out of high school. I still remember what it was like to be a high school student."

In April, they will attend a 40-hour course run by the National Association of School Resource Officers. It will give them an in-depth understanding of the role and functions of resource officers, as well as provide tools and training to help them to continue building positive relationships with students and staff.

Agawam police officer Jeff Hichborn took over as the school resource officer at AJHS in September. He replaces Officer Mark Poggi, who retired last spring.

The meeting is 6-8 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 12, in Classroom 014 at the UMass Center at Springfield's Tower Square, 1500 Main St., Springfield. Validated parking in the Tower Square garage is available at $5 per car; attendees are encouraged to park on Level A.

The study is examining the costs, benefits and investments necessary to implement a range of passenger rail service alternatives from Boston to Springfield and Pittsfield, up to and including high-speed rail. The goal of the meeting is to inform attendees about the study's analysis of six preliminary alternatives for improving connectivity and mobility in the East-West Corridor, and to gather feedback about the six options and what attendees would like to see in the three final rail service alternatives that will be analyzed further.

The meeting will begin with a presentation at 6 p.m., following by time for questions and answers. For more information about the proposals, visit www.mass.gov/east-west-passenger-rail-study.

the pipe," Hartman said.

Tennessee Gas' new pipeline would run along a corridor that already includes one active pipeline and one unused pipeline. The unused pipeline would be removed. The company needs to expand its easement — a legal permission to use someone else's property — both temporarily, for construction staging, and in some places permanently, to accommodate newer standards that demand a certain distance between two active pipelines. The current easement is generally 30 feet wide. The new one would be 20 additional feet.

The new pipe is 12 inches in diameter and would be laid three feet under the ground surface. The construction trench would be dug to 5 feet.

The new pipeline would run from the compressor station to a point near the west end of Silver Lake. It would join there with the existing pipeline, which continues to a gate station at Springfield Street, where it meets the low-pressure Columbia Gas distribution network.

Hartman said there are about 15 property owners along the route who are being asked to grant easements. Most of them have already agreed, he said. The City Council is involved only because the town needs to grant easements for pipeline work on town-owned lands, including the Department of Public Works-Municipal Annex property.

"If we can't work something out with the town, we're authorized by the [federal] certificate to take lands by eminent domain," said Hartman. "That's not our preference."

Eminent domain would be a "lengthier process, and an expensive process on both sides," said Buoniconti. As the size of the requested easement on town lands is about half an acre in the form of unbuildable lots, the likely payment would be less than the $150,000 that the mayor has negotiated with Tennessee Gas.

Council President Christopher Johnson emphasized that because Tennessee Gas has eminent domain powers, there is no action the town could take that would deny the gas company its federally permitted route. Agawam can accept the negotiated payment and expansion of the easement, or have its land taken by eminent domain. Challenging the eminent domain in court could only result in a different compensation price being paid, not in a reversal of the eminent domain taking, Johnson said.

Echoing comments made by pipeline opponents at the Jan. 21 meeting, some councilors questioned the need for new pipeline infrastructure as the state and marketplace encourage more use of renewable energy sources. They questioned what would happen if natural gas retailers, such as Columbia Gas, decided they no longer needed the increased supply.

"We have contracts with Columbia," replied Hartman. "This is a major part of the project. There's a contractual obligation for them to be part of this. We're contractually obligated to build this pipeline, so we intend to build this pipeline."

Responding to a question raised by Councilor Gina Letellier last week, Town Solicitor Stephen Buoniconti said he'd heard "loud and clear" that the pipeline company's obligation not to hurt the land it crosses — and to repair any damage it does cause — must be written into the easement amendment.

The 261 Upgrade Project also involves replacing two older turbines at the compressor station, a 1965 model and a 1991 model, with one new, larger gas-powered turbine. Hartman said the new equipment will be quieter and more energy-efficient than the old turbines.

Although about a dozen residents attended the meeting, the council did not hear public comments.

March meeting on exit number plan

SPRINGFIELD — State transportation officials have scheduled additional meetings about the planned switch to mileage-based exit numbers on major highways.

After a first round of sessions was held in December, there will be at least one additional Western Massachusetts date this spring. The Massachusetts Department of Transportation will hold a public information meeting at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 24, in Room 220 of City Hall, 36 Court St., Springfield. All are invited to learn more about the project and ask questions in person.

The conversion, planned to begin this summer, will affect most highways with exit numbers in Massachusetts, including Interstates 90 and 91.

For example, on the Massachusetts Turnpike, rather than running from Exit 1 in West Stockbridge to Exit 26 at Logan Airport, mileage-based exit numbers will start at 3 and end at 137. The current Exit 4, in West Springfield, will become Exit 45.

A handful of short expressways with closely spaced exits, including Interstates 291 and 391 in the Springfield area, will not see their numbers change. Highways without exit numbers, such as Route 57 in Agawam, will remain unnumbered.

The switch will bring most highways in Massachusetts, one of the last states in the country to number its exits sequentially, into compliance with 2009 federal standards. The project is expected to cost $2.8 million, statewide, of which 90 percent will be paid by a federal grant. MassDOT officials have said if the exit numbers are not changed by 2022, Massachusetts could have its federal highway aid withheld.

MassDOT also plans to schedule additional meetings this spring and summer. For more information about the project, visit www.NewMassExits.com.

Musical couple to give romantic concert

Just in time for Valentine's Day, the Agawam Cultural Council's Applause Series will present a program of romantic music for guitar, mandolin and cuatro on Friday, Feb. 7.

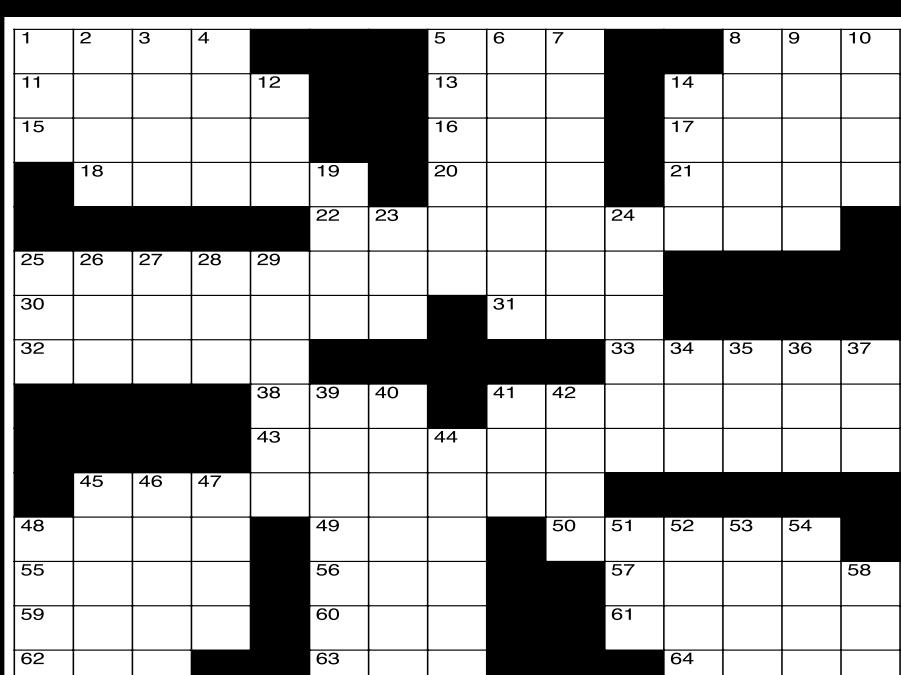

Romanza, a free performance by Connecticut husband-and-wife duo Judy Handler and Mark Levesque, will begin at 7 p.m. in the Senior Center, 954 Main St., Agawam. Doors open at 6:15 p.m.

Handler and Levesque will transport the audience to different parts of the world with lilting Venezuelan vals, rhythmic Brazilian bossa novas, a sizzling tango from Argentina, Puerto Rican popular music played on the national instrument, beautiful Peruvian and Mexican love songs, as well as exciting flamenco music and plaintive Sephardic music from Spain.

The concert is sponsored by TD Bank. The Agawam Cultural Council also thanks the Agawam Special Police, Elaine Carlson, OMG Inc., TD Bank, and Way Finders Inc. for their support as Applause Series season sponsors.

Additional information on the Applause Series is available at the Agawam Cultural Council web site, www.agawamcc.org. The Senior Center can be reached at 413-821-0604.

The Agawam Cultural Council is an all-volunteer agency funded, in part, by the Massachusetts Cultural Council. Its charge is to bring engaging, entertaining, and educational events and opportunities in the arts, humanities, and sciences, to children and adults from Agawam and the surrounding communities.

OUR VIEW

Don't leave furry friends in the cold

While Mother Nature has surely been wishy-washy with the weather this winter, it's imperative we don't forget about our four-legged furry friends when it comes to their seasonal needs.

The Massachusetts Emergency Management Agency has offered tips to help pet owners ensure they are being responsible caregivers during these chilly winter months in New England.

First, do not leave your pet outdoors when temperatures drop below freezing. You wouldn't want to be out there — why would the dog?

They need outdoor exercise, but take care not to keep them outdoors for lengthy periods of time during very cold weather. You may have a "cold-weather" breed of dog, but each pet is an individual, and those that live their lives mostly indoors need time to adapt to cold temperatures by building up a thicker coat and toughening their footpads for ice and snow.

Short-coated dogs may feel more comfortable wearing a sweater during walks.

Many dogs need boots in cold weather, regardless of their coat length. If your dog frequently lifts up its paws, whines or stops during walks, it may be demonstrating its feet are uncomfortably cold.

Boots can help protect from another winter hazard: road salt. If your pet walks on salted or chemically treated areas, be sure to wash its paws after your walk. Gently rub the bottom of the feet to remove these irritants as soon as your dog is off the road.

Other big dangers of the winter months are antifreeze and de-icing chemicals. Many types of antifreeze have a sweet taste that can attract animals, but if they ingest the chemical it may prove to be fatal. Always store antifreeze out of reach and clean up spills.

Speaking of cars, if you park outdoors, be sure to make sure there are no animals seeking warmth and shelter inside your car engine. Warm automobile engines are dangerous for cats and small wildlife. To avoid injuring hiding animals, bang on your car's hood to scare them off before starting your engine.

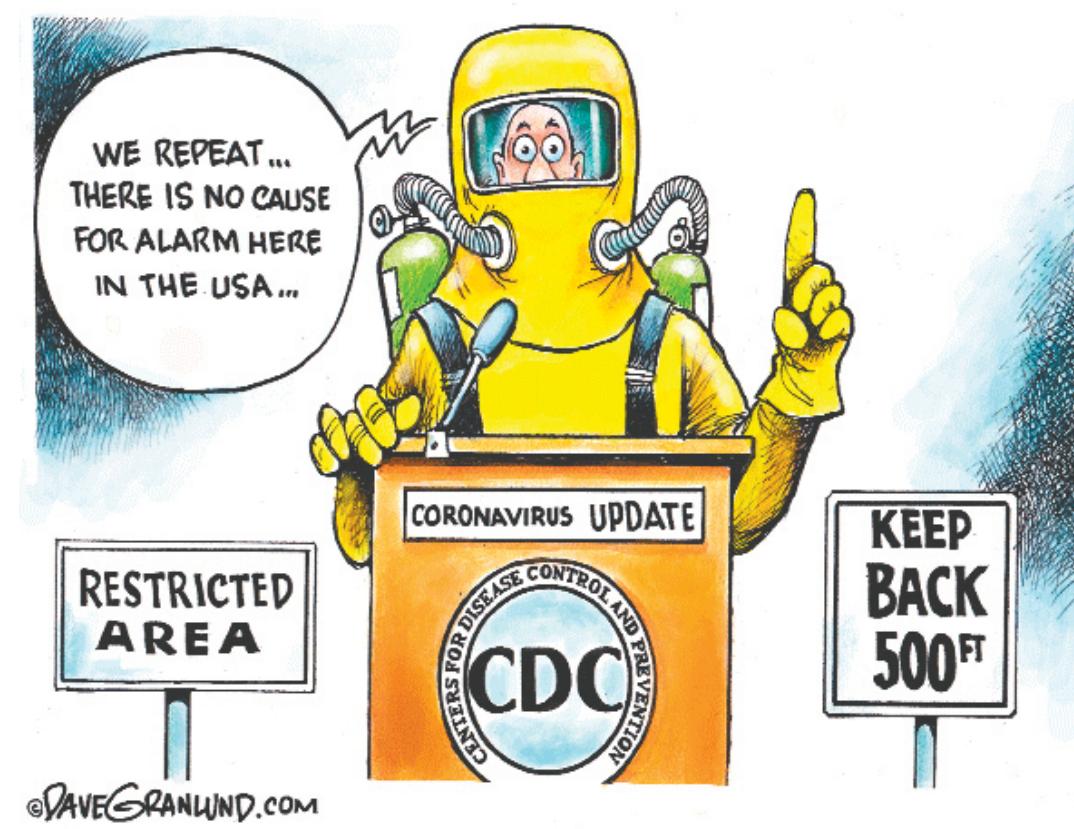

Keep pets on a leash when walking near suspected frozen bodies of water like lakes or ponds. The ice may not be sturdy enough to support its weight. If a pet falls through the ice, do not attempt to rescue it yourself; call 911 or go for help.

If your pet does stay outside during the winter months, be mindful of wind-chill. Outdoor dogs need a dry, draft-free doghouse that is large enough to allow it to both sit and lie down comfortably, but small enough to retain body heat.

The floor should be elevated a few inches off the ground and covered with cedar shavings or straw. The entrance of the doghouse should be turned to face away from prevailing winds, and the entrance should be covered with a flap of heavy waterproof fabric or heavy plastic.

But the best place for them is really inside with you, enjoying the warmth of the house.

IN THE GARDEN

Garden with the seasons for an unbeatable display

How often have you visited an outdoor museum, amusement park or resort and felt inspired by the gardens or container plantings used to adorn the property? Chances are you may have even used an especially delightful display as a backdrop for a family photo or two. Tourist attractions such as these put "their best foot forward" each season of the year to awe their customers with spectacular combinations of unique plants, so that no matter when the visit is planned, the guest leaves with the feeling something special was done in their honor.

We can treat our home gardens in a similar fashion. Why not? Certainly we deserve to have exceptional plantings, for our own enjoyment and for the "wow-factor" they will elicit from our friends. So instead of utilizing border plantings that provide only glimpses of color in the spring, summer and fall, devote entire beds to the showiest plants available for the time of year and change them with the seasons.

These types of gardens don't have to be very large, but they do have to be situated for optimal effect. Think "location, location, location!" If you have a long driveway, consider placing a "welcome garden" just as you turn down the path. Since it will be viewed from a distance, and from a single vantage point, make the bed more wide than narrow, and raise the height of the soil in the back of the bed a bit for a multidimensional appearance. Utilize large, bold flowers, bright colors and strong foliage forms; these will capture the eye en route.

Which door do you or guests normally use to enter and exit the house? Plant a small garden nearby, one that can be admired up close, each time you pass by it. Here, the intricacies of color and form can be fully appreciated, whereas in the garden out front they would be lost. Experiment with a variety of flower and foliage shapes and color schemes. Don't be afraid to use delicate or small flowers, or those that are mottled or two-tone. Likewise, variegated and cut-leaf foliage can make for interesting inspection if properly paired with surrounding plants.

Similar beds or container plantings can be planned for patio or pool-side, or for other areas within the landscape that might be suitable for entertaining. Simply tailor the gardens to the timeframe in which these locations are used most often, and choose your plants accordingly.

Our Back Pages

From yesteryear's editions of the Agawam Advertiser News, compiled by Michael Ballway.

A year ago: Former Fire Chief Russell "Rusty" Jenks died, at age 87, on Jan. 31, 2019. Jenks joined the Agawam Fire Department in 1954 and was chief from 1981 to 1993. In his retirement, he often drove an antique fire truck in Agawam parades and celebrations. He was also a member of the Western Massachusetts Model A Club and Agawam Historical Society.

Five years ago: Mark Del Negro will begin shooting his new horror film in Western Massachusetts on Jan. 30, 2015, but won't say exactly where, to avoid drawing a crowd. The Agawam native's previous film, "Blood Reservoir," was shot largely in town. The new film was revealed later to be "Aleister," which included two scenes in Feeding Hills.

Ten years ago: School Superintendent Mary Czajkowski is calling for a committee to find a replacement for the Early Childhood Center, reported the Feb. 4, 2010, Agawam Advertiser News. The Perry Lane pre-kindergarten "was intended to be a temporary facility 20 years ago," she said, and is "not a building that is conducive to the needs of the students that it houses." Ten years later, the ECC is still at Perry Lane, though the School Department has begun planning to move pre-kindergarten to the elementary schools.

Phelps pupils dress for future success on Spirit Day

By Mike Lydick
aan@turley.com

Last Friday, students at the Phelps Elementary School held a Spirit Day called Future Day. It gave students the opportunity to wear something related to a profession they would like to work in when they grow up.

Students dressed for a variety of professions, but the most popular one appeared to be law enforcement, including several kindergartners dressed as various types of police officers who even handed out citations to their classmates.

Among the other professions students chose were pastry chef, artist, soccer player, basketball player, engineer, martial arts instructor, veterinarian, animal trainer, safari leader, and one that was perhaps a bit unusual — paleontologist. That's a scientist who studies animal fossils.

This is the second year the school held a Future Day. "We've always had Spirit Days, but we wanted to offer additional and new days for students," said Rhonda Tyrowicz, one of the school's special education teachers.

She added that the idea for Future Day came from a discussion among the school's instructional leadership team about school-wide Positive Behavioral Interventions and Supports (PBIS) activities. Students earn "Cool Coupons" for good behavior that they can use to "pay" for optional activities like Future Day.

The school usually holds two different Spirit Days each month to reward students at the K-4 school for their good behavior. Other Spirit Day activities have included Crazy Hat Day, Crazy Hair Day, and Red, White and Blue Day (held near Memorial Day).

Lola Berthiaume and Benjamin Zaborowski, both 8, are looking for adventures and animals in their future careers. Lola, left, wore a T-shirt that proudly proclaimed, "I want to be a paleontologist," a scientist who studies animal fossils. "I want to dig up bones because it's about the history of animals," she said. Benjamin — ready to explore the forests of Africa — said he wants to lead safaris: "I want to study animals. I'd like to find an elephant to study."

Tough-looking 6-year-olds, from left, Bowen Williams, Jack Winiarski and Gavin Minalga strike a pose in the hallway at Phelps School in their mock Army outfits. They dressed as soldiers because they like the "cool" uniforms and vests.

Don't mess with Aubrey Lamontagne. The 8-year-old has been studying taekwondo for about a year and already has earned a green belt. She wants to be an instructor of Korean martial arts when she grows up: "I love doing taekwondo and I want to get really good so I can teach others."

Dressed in a white coat and holding a pink stethoscope, Emmalina Decaro checks out her favorite stuffed animal, a rabbit named Strawberry. The 8-year-old loves helping animals and one day wants to be a veterinarian: "I like animals. I want to help them and treat them when they're sick."

Dressed in firefighting gear, Isabel Dushane one day hopes to become a firefighter just like her dad, an officer in the Agawam Fire Department. "I like firefighters because they save lives," she added.

These kindergartners stand ready to protect and serve their classmates during Future Day at Phelps School. Dressed as various types of police officers, from left, John "J.J." Znoj, 5, Elliott Tomaiho, 6, Porter Tower, 5, Lilly Sullivan, 6, Brentley Preston, 6, Ayaan Sherwani, 6, and Macksen Smyth, 6, cited a variety of reasons their career hopes. Several said they wanted to follow in the footsteps of their fathers, others said it's because police officers help people, and one said "they drive cool cars with lights and sirens."

One of 9-year-old Payton Ramirez's favorite sports is soccer. That's why when she's older she wants to be a professional soccer player like one of her heroes — and often called one of the best soccer players in the world — F.C. Barcelona forward Leo Messi, whose No. 10 jersey she is wearing.

Statewide tournament proposal coming down to final vote

Editor's note: This is the first of a four-part series to break down the statewide tournament proposal, what it is, its effect on the Western Mass. region, the challenges, and how your athletic directors and coaches feel about it.

By Tim Peterson
sports@turley.com

FRANKLIN — A major proposal is coming to a final vote, which could change the way Massachusetts high school sports competes in postseason.

Depending on the outcome of a vote scheduled to be held at a special assembly meeting on Feb. 28, there could be major changes made to the tournament format. If the proposal is passed, all four sectional (North, South, Central, West) tournaments would be eliminated and replaced by a statewide tournament.

New divisional alignments for all sports are part of the proposal.

A majority vote by the 380 member schools will be needed in order for the proposal to pass.

The members of the MIAA's Tournament Management Committee held a press conference at the MIAA office in Franklin on Jan. 9 to discuss the new proposal, which they've been working on since 2016.

"I'm all about history. I love traditions," said Westborough High School athletic director Johanna DiCarlo, a member of the TMC. "I also think it's time to move this a little bit forward. We can create something here, an incredible opportunity for the association to change the way we're doing business and create something special for our kids and our communities."

The other members of the TMC, who attended the press conference, were former Saint John's Prep (Danvers) Athletic Director James O'Leary, MIAA liaison Sherry Bryant, and Burlington High School Athletic Director Shaun Hart. No representatives from Western Massachusetts attended the press conference.

A few weeks ago, the MIAA Board of Directors voted 14-3 in favor of holding a vote for the new statewide tournament at a site to be determined on Feb. 28.

If the new tournament plan is approved, it would start in the fall of 2021.

The TMC plan calls for many sports to be divided into five divisions. Tennis, field hockey, lacrosse will have four divisions. Boys ice hockey will have three, while girls ice hockey and boys volleyball will have two. Just like the current tournament format, each high school will be put into a division based on their enrollment.

Agawam offense struggles against Belchertown

By Tim Peterson
sports@turley.com

AMHERST — All of the Belchertown hockey players who played in the only meeting of the regular season against Agawam performed very well, especially several members of the freshmen class.

While a couple of the Orioles freshmen led the way offensively, senior goaltender Ethan Rajpold made a total of 31 saves in posting a 4-0 shutout victory over the Brownies under the bright lights of the UMass Mullins Center main arena, last Thursday night.

"Our freshmen played a great game tonight," said Belchertown head coach Matt Crutch. "James Greene scored two goals. Francis Henderson set one up and scored another one. Cody Samson and James Delaney, who are two of our defensive men, also played a lot of minutes. All of the freshmen have been working very hard and we really don't consider them to be freshmen at this point of the season. It was a total team effort tonight."

The Orioles (5-3-1) played their first game inside the Mullins Center main arena since 2018. They normally play all of their home games next door at the practice rink.

"It's always very nice to play a game in the main arena," Crutch said. "A lot of our guys have watched the UMass hockey team play here during the past couple of years. It's a very special place to play a game."

ice surface.

Rajpold was also the Orioles starting goalie in that match and he was credited with 23 saves against the Hurricanes.

It was the first time Agawam (3-8-2) has ever played a regular season game inside the main arena.

"Our kids really enjoyed playing here tonight," said Agawam head coach Rich Feeley. "They probably would've enjoyed it a little bit more had we won the game. We did have a few scoring chances in the first period, but we were unable to finish them off."

The Brownies outshot the Orioles, 13-5, in the opening period.

At the start of the game, a shot attempt by an Agawam player sailed into the net, but it was disallowed by the referee because of a high stick.

About 10 minutes later, Agawam sophomore Nathan Mans-

Brownies' lighter weights struggle, fall to Mahar

By Gregory A. Scibelli
gscibelli@turley.com

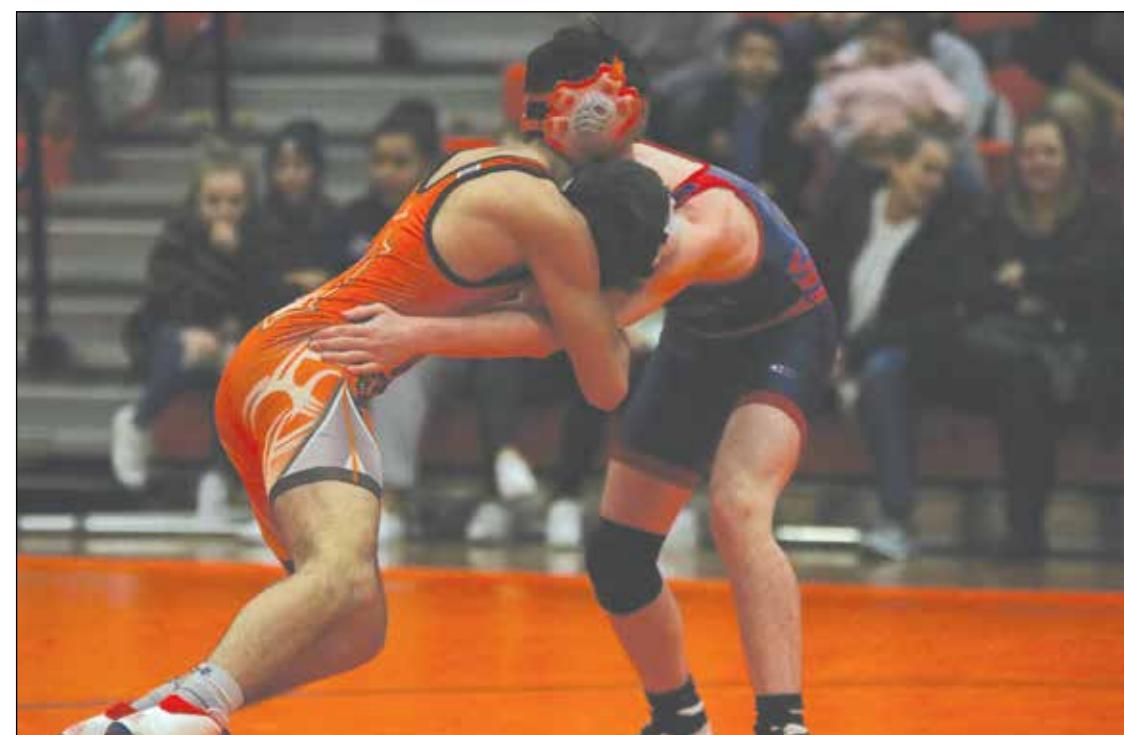

While Agawam has been building a deeper team, inexperience is still a factor as the Brownies found themselves on the losing end of a tough meet against Division 3's Mahar Regional High School last Thursday evening.

For Agawam, there was something to celebrate, and that was the first meet at home all season long. Agawam's indoor teams had been shut out of the gymnasium for the past several months due to there being no bleachers for fan seating. A delay in the replacement bleachers led to the Athletic Department having to move all home contests away from Agawam High starting with the girls volleyball team last fall.

The bleacher project was completed just a couple of weeks ago, and it was Agawam's first opportunity to host a meet all season against the Senators.

And Mahar did an excellent job taking it to the lighter weights in the meet as Agawam lacks experienced wrestlers at that level.

Mahar took the first six matches before Andrew Maslansky picked up the first win of the night when he won his match at 145 pounds. He picked up a first period pinfall when he scored a takedown, tried to roll his opponent over for a pin and was nearly pinned himself before getting the win.

One of Agawam's other wins came at 170 pounds as Tom Caracciolo was a victor due to an injury forfeit. Caracciolo was already up big thanks to a couple of good takedowns and multiple nearfalls. He also scored a reversal to open up the second period.

But his last pin attempt resulted in a slight shoulder injury for his opponent. Not wanting to take any chances, his coach pulled him from the match and Caracci-

Points format announced for Modified Series

By Kyle Souza

SEEKONK — Tri-Track Open Modified Series officials announced on Wednesday the point standings structure that will be used for the 2020 season.

As part of six events, drivers will tally points in each feature. In 2020, the champion will be decided by taking the best five out of six point totals a driver receives. Drivers will no longer be required to attend all six events to score the championship, but with a drop race factored into the totals, the new format allows for a driver to have a miscue, while still being in contention for the title.

"This will give drivers a bit more of a buffer in case something goes wrong at one of the races," Wayne Darling, one of two Managing Partners of the Tri Track Open Modified Series, said. "This is just one of many announcements we will have over the next few months. We're looking forward to getting the season underway in May."

The entire point fund for the season totals $15,000 in prize money, with the top 15 spots in the final standings set to earn a bonus.

The series also announced that registrations for the season are open and rules have been posted to the website. Teams can register and see rules by visiting the all-new Tri Track Open Modified Series website, trittrackmods.com, and visiting the team info page.

If race teams complete the registration for the full season between January 16 and March 31, the charge is just $450 for six events.

Any full season registrations made after March 31 will be $550. For those competitors interested in just registering for one event, the cost is $150 per event. Teams can send registration payment to the Tri Track PayPal account, info@trittrackmods.com, through the website.

After just a few days, more than a handful of teams have already entered. Owner Stan Mertz has entered with Woody Pitkat set to return behind the wheel, while upcoming racers Ryan Doucette and Dylan Izzo are also on the list. Joey Cipriano, a regular in Stafford Motor Speedway's SK Modified division joins them, along with others. The list is growing daily.

The 2020 schedule begins on Saturday, May 2, when drivers will take to the high banks of Monadnock Speedway in Winchester, N.H., to open the year. After that, a stop at Claremont Speedway on Memorial Day weekend (May 24), is followed by the annual Open Wheel Wednesday at Seekonk Speedway, the only mid-week show, on Wednesday, July 1. The final three races include the annual SBM 125 at Star Speedway (July 25), Monadnock Speedway (Aug. 15) and the annual Haunted Hundred at Seekonk Speedway (Oct. 24), where the champion will be crowned.

Red Sox Winter Weekend comes to Western Mass. for a great fan experience

SPRINGFIELD — Two weeks ago, the precursor to Spring Training came to the area as Springfield's MGM hosted Boston Red Sox Winter Weekend. Fans who attended the weekend had an opportunity to participate in many activities, meet former and current Red Sox players, and see memorabilia on display. There were also panel discussions, autograph sessions, and meet and greets. Of note, the Red Sox's four World Series trophies were on display. Fans could view and have their photograph taken with the trophies, won in 2004, 2007, 2013, and 2018. It was the first time the Winter Weekend has come to the region.

er had a breakaway opportunity, but Rajpold made the save keeping the match scoreless.

The Brownies also failed to score a goal on a first period power-play.

"I thought we came out flat in the first period, but Ethan made a couple of big saves, which kept us in the game. He's our senior captain and that's what we expect from him," Crutch said. "We then put our third line out there at the start of the second period and those guys really set the tone for the rest of the period. Everyone else just fed off of them."

The Orioles got on the scoreboard at 3:58 of the second period on a breakaway goal by Greene, which was assisted by Henderson.

"After Francis sent me a long pass, I beat the defender and then put a shot over the goalie's pad," said Greene, who netted his first career varsity goal. "It was just a great feeling to score my first varsity goal, especially on a breakaway."

Greene was recently moved up to the Orioles second line.

"We knew James Greene was a very talented offensive player," Crutch said. "He has also played very well at the defensive end of the ice as well."

Greene's line mates against Agawam were junior Colby Masse and Henderson.

Agawam senior goalie Nick Brady (19 saves) did make a couple of outstanding saves during the final two minutes of the second period keeping the score 1-0.

"Nick is a very good goalie," Feely said. "He always works very hard in every game. It just wasn't our night tonight."

The score remained 1-0 until the 8:26 mark of the third period when Henderson scored a goal. The Orioles second goal was assisted by Masse and Greene.

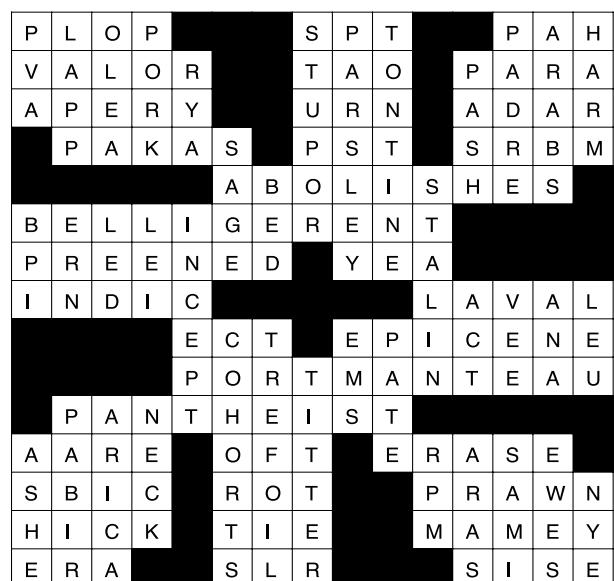

Less than five minutes later, Greene scored his second goal of the match on his own rebound shot.

Thunderbirds pick up win over Tigers before break

SPRINGFIELD – The Springfield Thunderbirds (25-19-2-0) scored the final four goals of the night in knocking off the Bridgeport Sound Tigers (15-25-4-1) by a final score of 6-2 on Saturday night before a sellout crowd of 6,793 inside the MassMutual Center.

The first period was a shooting gallery from start for each of the Atlantic Division foes, but Jared Coreau in the Bridgeport net and Sam Montembeault in the T-Birds crease had answers for 16 shots each in the opening period.

Springfield had the only two special teams chances in the period, but the power play could not dent Coreau despite extended pressure on the man advantage.

The middle period finally cracked the goal-scoring seal, and a wild 20-minute session ensued, beginning with rookie Jake Massie beating Coreau from the high slot to give Springfield the 1-0 advantage at 7:12 of the period.

Just 2:01 later, the Sound Tigers tied the game under controversial circumstances. Bobo Carpenter intercepted a pass from Montembeault and fired it right back at the T-Birds netminder. A whistle sounded right as Cole Bardreau slipped the puck into the empty net, but the goal stood. T-Birds coach Geordie Kinnear got into a heated discussion with the officials, to which the crowd responded to an enormous roar.

From that point forward, the T-Birds exerted their will. Owen Tippett recorded the first of three points as he turned the left-wing corner and snapped a shot underneath Coreau's legs to make it 2-1 at 12:32 of the period. Bridgeport would not go quietly, though, as Grant Hutton beat Montembeault on a long-range wrister at 17:00 to tie the game again, 2-2.

2:10 after that, with less than a minute to go in the period, Dryden Hunt carried the puck into the offensive zone on a 2-on-1 with Adam Rockwood, and after being stopped at first, he snapped a shot home from the bottom of the right circle to put Springfield up for good, 3-2 at 19:10.

After fending off an early Bridgeport push, the T-Birds powered to the finish line with a three-goal third period, beginning with a strike from Jack Rodewald off a turnover by Coreau at 4:00 to make it 4-2. Then 9 minutes later, Daniel Audette added to the lead, finding a soft spot in the high slot, and firing a turnaround wrister past Coreau to make it 5-2.

In the final minute, Aleksi Saarela iced the game with his 11th goal of the season off a set-up from Tippett. With the three-point night, Tippett heads to his first AHL All-Star Classic with 40 points in his first 46 games.

The Thunderbirds also climbed into the fourth position in the Atlantic Division heading into the All-Star break.

olo was awarded the victory.

Two other victories went to Harrison Mendrala and Evan Cruz.

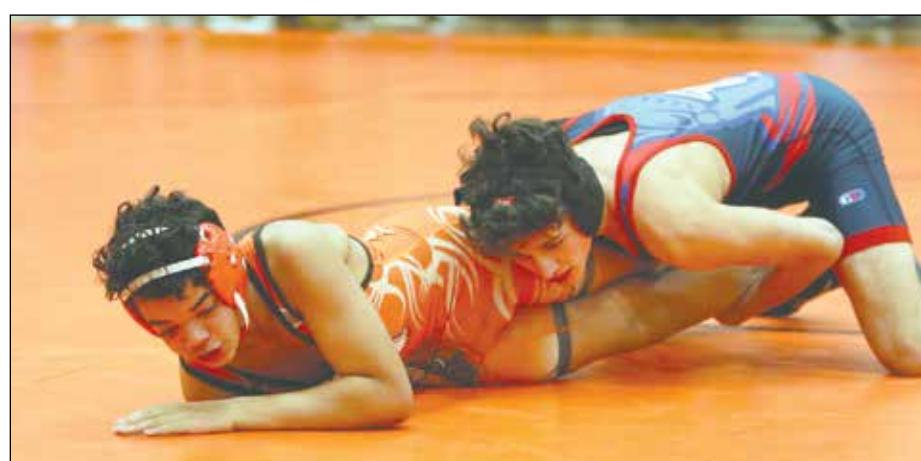

Mendrala, who now competes at 182 pounds, got a very quick takedown and then needed a pair of nearfalls before he eventually trapped his opponent in a pinning predicament.

Cruz was a pinfall winner in just over a minute, using a cradle move to lock his opponent up.

Agawam's other two wins came by forfeit, with Nick Burbank being awarded a victory at 220 pounds, and Antonio Ramos, one of Agawam's top wrestlers, taking the forfeit win at heavyweight.

Agawam heads to Franklin Tech this Saturday to take part in their dual meets. Agawam then faces Putnam vocational on the road next Tuesday evening at 7 p.m.

The football tournament is still up in the air at the moment. The football committee is trying to figure out if they want to play a seven-week regular season and have 32 teams qualify for the playoffs in each division or play eight weeks and only have 16 teams in the playoffs.

"The Western and Central part of the state currently plays an eight-week regular season schedule, while Eastern Mass. only plays seven weeks," O'Leary said. "That's something the football committee still needs to figure out."

The seeding and pairings for the new statewide tournament will be handled by Maxpreps. The top 32 teams in each Division will be ranked by Maxpreps. Those 32 teams will also automatically qualify for the tournament. The other teams, who finish the regular season with at least a .500 record, will also be included in the postseason tournament.

"Power seeding will determine the 32 teams in each division," DiCarlo said. "Teams not seeded in the top 32, but meeting our 50 percent qualifying criteria will also be eligible for the tournament. That was the direct feedback from some of our colleagues that they did not want to lose that 50 percent qualifying standard that we have in our system. Those teams will play in the preliminary round."

The top four teams in each division will be put into four brackets as top-seeds, which is similar to the NCAA Men's basketball tournament.

Currently teams are able to qualify for the postseason tournament by using the Sullivan rule. They can also qualify by finishing first or second in their league standings. Those avenues will not be available under the new plan.

MaxPreps, which is owned by CBS Sports, is scheduled to take over rankings and seedings for tournaments beginning in 2020-2021.

Travel, especially on a school night, was one of the major issues discussed at the press conference.

"One superintendent said it best at one of our meetings. He said, 'I'll find the money to play a like-sized school rather than having to play a large opponent because they're prep,'" said O'Leary, who's the TMC chairman. "We are not really a big state when you look at other states and how they travel and what they do. I know during the regular season I see teams traveling a lot of places in some sports for an 8:20 game and they seem to get there."

This is what Hart said about teams having to travel across the state to play tournament games.

"It's not an every-day travel. It's a one-time deal, or it might be a two-time," he said. "We're talking about something and we're trying to make it bigger for the kids as well."

All of the tournament games will be held at the higher seeded schools until the state semifinal and finals, which will be held at neutral sites.

Even if the new state tournament plan is passed, there could still be a Western Mass. tournament in most sports during the final week of the regular season. Nothing has been finalized yet.

DEVELOPER ■ from page 1

With a positive recommendation from the Community Preservation Committee, the proposal will appear on an upcoming City Council agenda. The council will cast the deciding vote on whether to spend the funds.

Though Way Finders' plans for the site have received state approval, the Springfield-based nonprofit is still working to raise the funds it needs for construction. James Linfield, the project manager, said his agency is in the running for a state construction grant, and finalists will be announced next month. Being able to show that the project has local support would increase Way Finders' odds of receiving the grant, Linfield said.

"They want town buy-in," Linfield said.

Yet the project, at a former farm on a street of single-family homes, has attracted protestors from the start. Neighbors have expressed concerns about traffic on Mill Street, and banded together in 2016 in an effort to scuttle the project.

City Councilor George Bitzas, who attended the Jan. 22 meeting, opposed spending local taxpayers' money on a controversial project.

"The time we came to propose [Rosewood Way], it was full of people opposing," Bitzas said. "I don't think that's fair. Use this [money] for the people of Agawam, the elderly people who need their homes repaired. It should not go to builders."

CPA Committee member Ray Moreau proposed cutting the payment in half, but none of the other committee members voted for his amendment. Moreau was the only committee member to vote against the $564,000.

Linfield, however, said the project would check several boxes on Agawam's 2016 Housing Needs Assessment by increasing the number of affordable units in town, particularly those designed for residents with limited mobility.

Doreen Prouty spoke for the majority on the board.

"We've been talking for years about how we need to support affordable housing," Prouty said. "It's beneficial to the town of Agawam. It just happens to be being built by a private entity."

One of the opponents' concerns about the Rosewood Way project was that Way Finders could not guarantee that Agawam residents would be given preference in the rental process. Michelle McAdaragh, Way Finders' senior vice president of real estate development, said the state can mandate a local-preference lottery for the project's affordable units, if town officials request it.

"I have never seen the state decline it, and I've been with Way Finders for 22 years doing this kind of thing," she said.

Rosewood Way will occupy the rear 8.5 acres of the former farm at 586 Mill St., Feeding Hills. The apartments would occupy 10 two-story townhome buildings. Plans also call for a common building with an office, laundry and recreation room that residents can use.

Though the land is zoned Agricultural, Way Finders was able to sidestep local zoning by receiving a state permit under Chapter 40B. This option is open to projects in which at least 25 percent of the units are "affordable," as long as the town's housing stock is less than 10 percent affordable. Just 4 percent of Agawam's housing units qualify as affordable.

The rest of the property, about 5 acres, has been split into three house lots along Mill Street. Way Finders has not submitted any proposals for these lots. Linfield said he did not know when, or if, Way Finders plans to develop those lots.

Agawam's Community Preservation Act account has a balance of $3.45 million. The money can only be spent on open space, affordable housing, historical preservation or recreational properties.

BUSINESS

Turley Publications is liberal with regard to its business coverage policies, but we do have some standards folks need to understand. First, local businesses and merchants are just as much institutions in our towns as the library and schools. Without them, there are no towns.

We will feature coverage of local businesses that are new, have a major expansion, moving, closing, under new management or ownership, celebrating a milestone anniversary, or have been thrust into the news realm. Merchants can request that coverage through the editor, or for our existing advertising clients, through their ad representatives.

For more information on business coverage for the Agawam Advertiser News, please email mballway@turley.com.

DEATH NOTICE

Celebration of Life Jan. 30
Colonial Forastiere Funeral & Cremation

Margaret Keeley Stapleton, 101

Margaret Keeley Stapleton, 101, passed away peacefully on Sunday, Jan. 26, with her loving family by her side.

She was born in 1918 in Cheshire to Thomas and Catherine (Mullen) Keeley. Her family moved to Agawam in the early 1920s, where they purchased their family farm on Suffield Street. She graduated from Agawam High School in 1936 and attended Bay Path College.

She began to work at age 18 for her uncle at T.J. Murray Plating Co., at the Indian Motorcycle factory in Springfield. In 1954, Stapleton built her home on an adjoining lot given by her parents, where she raised her family and lived her entire life. Shortly after having children, Margaret's entrepreneurial spirit brought her to open Hansel and Gretel Nursery School in the early 1960s. She later worked for her brothers at Keeley Brothers Plating in West Springfield.

Stapleton was a lifelong member of St. John the Evangelist Church in Agawam. Many things brought her joy including socializing, music and dancing, vacationing at the beach in Watch Hill, R.I., and reading books of historical fiction and politics. She was active and liked to keep busy while enjoying time with friends and family, gardening, knitting, and being outdoors.

Stapleton's family, faith and Irish heritage were paramount. She had a heart of gold, with her door always open for her family and friends, and she enjoyed sharing memories of her life on the Keeley farm. She leaves behind to cherish her memory her three children and their spouses: Katherine and Todd Menees of Bridgewater Corners, Vt., Mary Ellen and Alan Pilkington of East Longmeadow, and Thomas and Lynne Stapleton of Southwick; five grandchildren, Heather Pilkington, John and Daniel Stapleton, and Ryan and Laura Koloski; and three great-grandchildren, Olivia and Jonah Czeck, and Thea Rose Koloski. Besides her parents, Stapleton is pre-deceased by her brothers and sisters Helen Wright, Thomas Keeley, James Keeley, Bernard Keeley, Ann Carle and William Keeley.

A celebration of her life will begin with visiting hours 4-7 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 30, at Colonial Forastiere Funeral & Cremation, 985 Main St., Agawam. Ceremonies will continue at 9 a.m. Friday, Jan. 31, at the funeral home, with a Liturgy of Christian Burial in St. John the Evangelist Church at 10 a.m., and burial to follow in Agawam Center Cemetery.

Donations may be made in Stapleton's memory to Little Sisters of the Poor, 1365 Enfield St., Enfield, CT 06082. For more information or to leave an online message to the family, visit www.forastiere.com.

Encaustic artist to demonstrate techniques at meeting

The Agawam Community Artists and Artisans will welcome Pam Brown as their artist demonstrator at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 12, at the Agawam Public Library, 750 Cooper St., Agawam.

Brown will discuss her work with encaustic and resin. Encaustic is a mixed-media technique using heated beeswax with colored pigments. Brown uses oil paint sticks, pan pastels and ground pigments. The liquid paste is then applied to a surface, usually prepared wood, although canvas and other materials are often used. Heat is applied to the natural beeswax and dammar resin crystals (crystallized tree sap) to fuse the mediums together. The paste can be poured in several layers, for a work with engaging depth.

Brown, a Springfield resident, is mostly self-taught by using online classes taught by professional artists. She is a member of Scantic River Artists, Tobacco Valley Artists Association and Wilbraham Art League, and her work has won several awards.

Light refreshments will be served at the meeting. Everyone is welcome to attend. For more information, contact Ceil Rossi at 413-207-1247 or tocarefree2@hotmail.com.

Pam Brown will discuss her encaustic artworks at the Agawam Community Artists and Artisans meeting on Feb. 12. SUBMITTED PHOTOS
